Certain risks cannot be eliminated without destroying the unique character of our activities. The same elements that contribute to the unique character of camp activities can be causes of loss of or damage to equipment, accidental injury or illness, or, in extreme cases permanent trauma or death. We do not want to frighten you or reduce your child’s enthusiasm, but we think that it is important for you to know in advance what to expect and to be informed of inherent risks associated with many of the activities in which your child will participate. The following describes some, but certainly not all, of those risks:

- Campers can slip or fall during a hike, resulting in damage to equipment, accidental personal injury or illness, or, in extreme cases, permanent trauma or death.
- Expose to the natural elements can be uncomfortable and/or harmful. Campers should be aware that this exposure could cause sunburn, wind burn, dehydration, heat exhaustion, heat stroke, heat cramps and/or other conditions related to climate, weather and temperature conditions.
- There is a risk of injury when wading, swimming, jumping or diving in a body of water, such as Geneva Lake. Diving head –first into a body of water may result in serious injury, permanent paralysis, or death. Even jumping feet-first into a lake is reckless and may result in injuries.
- Hiking, climbing, rappelling, sports, archery, and many other of camp activities can result in falls, the danger of falling objects, sprains, strains, bone breaks, contusions, abrasions, damage to personal equipment, other accidental personal injury or illness, and/or, in extreme cases permanent trauma or death.
